RAIL CHIEFS TO MEET UNION MEN TO TALK PEACE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Transportation tieups in the far west began to unravel today as rail heads and union heads leaders were headed toward negotiations for ending the railroad strike.

Railroad executives here were pessimistic over the success of peace parleys proposed by leaders of the non-striking unions, in whose hands the shop crafts placed their case.

Rejection by the unions of President Harding's proposals for ending the strike, rail heads declared, all but broke their faith in the success of the suggested conference, but despite their lack of confidence, executives of the western roads approved acceptance of the proposal to meet the unions in New York tomorrow. Although conditions on roads in the far west were relieved by breaks in the strike of train crews, the strike situation remained in the same critical stage in which it has hung for days and President Harding's next expected move was to lay the whole industrial crisis before congress.

Embargoes were lifted and trains moved again over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe; the Southern Pacific, the roads chiefly affected by the walkouts of the "big four" transportation brotherhoods.

Refusal of brotherhood leaders to sanction the walkouts when the Santa Fe issued ultimatums demanding immediate explanations of the attitude of national officials of the train service unions were followed by speedy developments in untying the traffic knots in California and other western states. Conditions on other roads affected by the brotherhood walkouts were slower in clearing up. Outbreaks and violence in connection with the strike during the last 24 hours including a clash between strikers and guards and workmen in the Missouri Pacific yards at Van Buren, Ark., six miles west of Fort Smith. Over 100 shots were fired.

At Little Rock, Ark., George Walker, 18, and Frank Walker, 17, were seized by three men in the Missouri Pacific yards, taken into the country and flogged. George made his way back to the city but Frank was still missing early today. Neither of the youths had been working in the railroad shops, but were making their way to their home in Chicago.

Four men were arrested at Bristol, Va., on federal warrants charging them with intimidating non-union workers in the Norfolk and Western railroad yards.

Nine men were arrested and warrants were issued for others in connection with riots at Newton, Kan., on the night of August 12 The warrants charged violation of the Kansas industrial court law.

At Tolleja, Kan., officials of the industrial court law took steps to prosecute strike agitators under provisions of the anti-syndicalism law.

PUBLIC AWAITS MESSAGE OF PRESIDENT TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Aug 16—While the public awaited President Harding's message to congress in which he will present all facts as to the situation and in which he is expected to express determination to throw the full support of the federal government behind efforts for maintenance of railway operations throughout the country, chiefs of the employes' unions continued today with their plans for direct settlement of the rail strike. These chiefs, chairmen of the train service brotherhoods not on national strike, still were pinning their hope to negotiations they began yesterday for a conference of the striking shopmen's leaders and the railway executives in New York Thursday, and from which they hoped some sort of compromise agreement would be forthcoming.

The president's message was not expected to be sent to congress today, though there was a possibility Mr. Harding might complete it late in the day. Whether the president would suggest any sort of action or recommend legislation to deal with the rail situation was said to depend on developments today.

THREE TRANSCONTINENTAL TRAINS AT ALBUQUERQUE

Three transcontinental trains which arrived here last night from Las Vegas are still being held here. Officials are hopeful that the Gallup situation will be cleared up today as a representative of the national officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen is at Gallup today for a conference with the brotherhoods there.

PRESIDENT TO PRESENT POSITION OF GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—President Harding in a message to congress will present to the federal legislators and to the country the position of the government with respect to the existing industrial troubles, particularly the railroad strike.

Arrangements for the president's appearance at a joint session were completed at a conference between the executive and Senator Lodge, republican leader in the senate

Belief had been expressed in some quarters prior to the conference that the president might delay presentation of his message until after it had been determined whether the mediation efforts of the train service brotherhood chiefs in tomorrow's conference with a committee of railroad executives would be successful but Senator Lodge said he found the president fully decided to go before congress at the earliest possible moment.

SENATOR HARRELD, OKLAHOMA, URGES CRUDE OIL TARIFF

ONLY MEANS OF PROTECTING INDEPENDENT PRODUCER, HE SAYS

CHARGE EFFORT MADE TO MONOPOLIZE THE INDUSTRY

Says Big Companies Bought Holdings of Many Independents at Low Price

WASHINGTON, Aug 16—Tariff duties on crude petroleum and fuel oil were advocated today in the senate by Senator Harreld, republican, Oklahoma, as the only means of protecting the independent oil producers of the United States against what he described as a monopoly by the Standard, E L Doheny and Royal Dutch Shell oil companies

Renewing his charge of last August that the Standard, Doheny and Royal Shell companies were seeking to monopolize oil production in this country, Senator Harreld said that since this time the Royal Dutch Shell had taken over the Union Oil company of Delaware, thus getting control of $75,000,000 worth of properties; that the Standard and Doheny companies had acquired valuable holdings in California and Wyoming and the Standard of Indiana had acquired 95 per cent of the stock of the Midwest Refinery company.

The Oklahoma senator also asserted that during the past year when oil prices were the lowest, the monopolists succeeded in purchasing the holdings of a great many independent operators at practically forced sales and at a small percentage of their value.

Charging that the three companies he named had a monopoly of production of oil in Mexico, Mr. Harreld told the senate it was their policy to charge all that the traffic would bear and that consequently the price would not be affected by a tariff. He argued that on the other hand the tariff would bring to the government a huge amount of revenue and at the same time protect the thousands of small independent producers in the United States.

Mr. Harreld said that the fact the representatives of the companies had not appeared before the finance committee to oppose the proposed rates on petroleum and fuel oil "shows how completely and shrewdly these people operate"

("They had consumers of fuel oil appear before the committee," he continued, "in the form of railroad companies, represented by one Mr. Thom, and various other users of fuel oil from various parts of the country, and oppose the imposition of this tariff.")

GOVERNOR DELIVERS KEYNOTE SPEECH AT MEETING AT WACO

WACO, TEXAS, Aug 16—Governor Pat M Neff made the keynote speech today before the flood conservation and irrigation convention and demonstrating the folly of sitting idle and seeing the flood waters of north, west and northwest Texas escape through the streams of the state leaving the vast country where the rain fell without moisture, while the lowlands of southern Texas were inundated and destroyed thereby. He pointed out that every important stream except two was wholly inside the state and the waters belonged to Texas; that skillful development of the water resources of this state would make Texas the greatest water conservation commonwealth in the world, that in water power alone Texas could lead the south. The state has possibilities of 500,000 horsepower, more than could be gotten out of every ton of coal in the state.

Carl Guinn of Ballinger was elected chairman of the meeting. It was announced that permanent organization would be effected to carry out the purposes outlined by Governor Neff, which was to impound the water in the streams of the northwest and west, develop all irrigable lands in that section and protect the lower reaches of the streams by levying.

About four hundred are in attendance.

DISCOVER TWO VIALS CHLOROFORM IN HOME FOLLOWING A MURDER

LAKE HURST, N. J. Aug 16—The discovery of two vials of chloroform in the home of Mrs Ivy Giberson, held on a charge of murder after the discovery of her husband shot to death in his bed, has started Coroner Brouwer upon an investigation to ascertain whether Giberson was chloroformed before he was shot

Joe Richmond, 18 year old son of Mrs. Giberson by a former marriage, told the authorities that a few hours after the discovery of the crime, he detected a smell of chloroform in the house. The coroner learned also that others had noticed the same odor.

Mrs Giberson, who was found bound by cord when rescuers entered the room in answer to her calls for help, told police that two robbers had robbed her husband of $700, and shot him when he awoke and apparently recognized them.

SAYS THE STATE MUST TAKE LEAD IN CONSERVATION

FLOODS AND RECLAMATION IS DISCUSSED BY DEAN OF UNIVERSITY

THREE BIG PROBLEMS ARE CONFRONTING TEXAS

Reclamation of Dry Land, of Overflowed Territory and Flood Control

WACO, TEXAS, Aug 16.—"If conservation of the Texas flood waters ever comes, the state must take the lead and not wait on some modern miracle to bring it," Dean T U. Taylor of the school of engineering of the state university told engineers and others gathered here today to consider flood and reclamation problems at the call of the West Texas chamber of commerce

"The conservation of our flood waters is emphatically a state problem rather than a local or district problem, and if Texas does not solve it no one else will," Mr Taylor said.

"Three big problems of conservation confront the state, namely, reclamation of the rich dry land in the arid west by getting it wet, reclamation of the overflowed and swampy land of east Texas by getting it dry, and flood control which is the mudsill of reclamation in both the east and west. These are big problems and it will take years to meet them but before another year is passed surveying parties should be in the mountains and gorges making necessary topographic maps to foreshadow future projects.

"The land and the water are twin factors in agricultural wealth. The lands of the west are abundant and rich and storm waters are present in the valleys. These two factors can be brought together with the sure result that corn, cotton, alfalfa and school houses will replace the mosquito, the drouth, the coyote and the desert.

"We need accurate information about the arid lands in the west and the overflowed lands in the east, and it will be necessary for the state departments to obtain such information. All we ask the state to do is to send out these field parties and we will find other means to prevent floods from being the dictator of our rivers, but rather, the servant of our rivers."

NEW FIXTURES IN HOWELL STORE TO MAKE IMPROVEMENT

Several thousand dollars worth of new fixtures are being placed in the Howell stores and under the new management a new department will be installed. The new department, piece goods will be forty feet in length and will carry complete lines

All the new furniture was ordered to match those already in the establishment and are made of quarter sawed gum. Many new display cases are also being added and the clothing department is being moved towards the Eighth street front to join up with the furnishings department.

Under the new arrangement the entire store will be in one unit and will be one of the most modern department stores in the city

Buyers will leave next week for Dallas and the eastern markets to buy the stock of piece goods and notions

ASTONISHED TO LEARN FROM WILL THAT WOMAN WAS NOT THEIR MOTHER

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL, Aug 16—When the will of Mrs. Teresa Bell, widow of the late Thomas Bell, wealthy California pioneer, was read following her funeral, in the offices of her attorney, the five men and women present who believed she was their mother were astounded to learn from the document that she had denied them to be of her own flesh and blood and had bequeathed them only $5 each. The will does not divulge what she claims is their true parentage.

A third of the estate is left to charities. Besides a few bequests to friends and servants, Mrs. Bell leaves the residue of her fortune of approximately $700,000 to her cousins "if she had any," otherwise to the state of California

GOLDEN WEDDING IS CELEBRATED BY SEYMOUR COUPLE

SEYMOUR, TEXAS, Aug 16—Most everyone has the pleasure of contemplating the association clustering around their wedding morn but few live to witness and enjoy their fiftieth anniversary. The celebration of Mr. and Mrs. J P Stout was a celebration which should bring distinction to any state or county The celebration was held at the home of Mr and Mrs J. P Stout on Hog Creek where they had lived for 36 years. Two beeves were killed and all ladies under fifty brought a basket There were between five and six hundred people present One hundred or more old-timers over fifty years old were present Indeed, the feast was one that will never be forgotten and a real old-fashioned "cow boy dish" was prepared by Jim Newton.

Supt. L Timmons of Throckmorton high school made a splendid talk. His father had camped in this same spot 50 years ago.

After dinner a ball game was enjoyed, after which the crowd left wishing the "bride and groom" many more years of happiness and each hopes to be present at their diamond anniversary.

Mr. Stout is a blood descendant of the Stout woman who was scalped by the Indians in early days. He was born in Arkansas December 4, 1849, making him 75 years old He is healthy and can do most any kind of work. Mrs Eliza Stout (nee Saddler) was born in Arkansas April 9, 1854, making her 69. They were married in Alvarado, Johnson county, August 10, 1872. To this union were born 11 children, two died in infancy and the following lived to be grown Mrs Arta Dunlap, Lorenza, Texas; Mr R G. Stout, engineer on the Wichita Valley railroad; lives at Wichita Falls; Mrs Bennie Lundon, Round Timbers, Texas; Mrs. Abbie Stewart, Seymour, Texas; Mr. Leon Stout, mechanic, Throckmorton; Mr. Lowe Stout, foreman on Roberson ranch, Miller Creek; Mr. Andrew Stout, who lives at home place; Mrs. Ethel Echols, Throckmorton, Texas, and Jr. Callie Stout, who lives on Hog Creek and is a stock farmer.

Mr and Mrs. J. P. Stout have 21 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. All the grandchildren were present. An unusual thing about this celebration, it was the first time in life that all the family had ever been together, as the oldest girl was grown and married before the youngest child was born

Five or six counties were represented. A few from the different towns were Judge Reynolds, Dr Herrell, Mrs. D. B. Thomas, Ethel Echols, Tommie Echols and Leon Stout, Throckmorton; Mr. and Mrs C T. Porter, Mr and Mrs Tom Stewart and Mr. and Mrs L Downing, Seymour, Texas, Mr Jake Johnston and family, Lubbock, Texas, Mr. Lowe Stout, Mrs. Bill Robertson, Mr and Mrs. Clifton Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Parker and family and Mr. Milt and Lou Howe of Baylor county, Mr. Milam, a Baptist minister, of Ivan, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Parker and children and their families, Round Timbers Texas; Mr. G. C Halls, one of the first men to settle on Hog Creek, Megargel, Texas, Mr. and Mrs Jeff Jordan of Jean, who were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs Stout 50 years ago, and were given a big turkey dinner and danced all night.

Mr. and Mrs Jake Roberts of Elbert were also real old timers, and many other places were represented, but their names were not obtained.

RECENT PUBLICITY OBJECTED TO BY C. OF C. DIRECTORS

Objection to what they considered undesirable publicity for Wichita Falls was voiced by chamber of commerce directors Wednesday morning, at a brief session.

Recent articles on a "crime wave" and on the house rent question were discussed at the meeting Major Collier told the directors that there had been no serious amount of crime here and that the police budget was as large as the city finances would permit The directors took the view, on the rent question, that the charges here are largely the result of supply and demand, and that comparisons with other communities consumed less desirable as places to live should not be made.

The directors voted to pay half the cost of an automobile for use of the recently appointed home demonstration agent, provided other chambers of commerce in the county would pay the other half

FRELINGHUYSEN, DRY EDWARDS, WET, TO MAKE JERSEY FIGHT

RECORD'S CIRCUS CAMPAIGN FOR SENATOR MAKES LITTLE HEADWAY.

MAKES SPECTACULAR TOUR OF THE STATE

Decorated Truck, a Big Tint and a Cornetist Add to the Attraction.

By MARK SULLIVAN

National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times

(Copyright, 1922, by the New York Evening Post)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Joseph S Frelinghuysen, the senior senator from New Jersey, is a candidate for renomination He is a republican He is a personal friend of President Harding who has visited the senator in his home during the present summer and he is now being opposed for the republican nomination in much the same way and on some of the issues which brought success to various other progressives or radicals like Brookhart's victory over the regular republicans in Iowa Frazier's victory over McCumber in North Dakota and Howell's victory over the regulars in Nebraska.

SULLIVAN

Superficially there is some resemblance between these western situations and the one now developing in New Jersey It cannot be said however, that this opposition to Frelinghuysen has as yet gone far enough to threaten his renomination seriously His opponents point out that there are seven weeks to go yet

The anti-Frelinghuysen candidate is George L. Record of Jersey City. He is conducting an unusual campaign He has a tent and a big truck that carries 400 folding chairs Every morning Mr Record with his tent and his truck and a band of helpers, including a skilled cornetist, strikes out for a new town By 12 o'clock the tent is up During the afternoon Mr Record's workers go out and insert in the mail boxes or under the doors of all the houses in the town a pamphlet setting forth his platform, his ideas on the questions of the day and his theory of the issues of the campaign The same circulars carry an announcement that Mr Record will speak in the tent during the evening

When evening comes Mr Record's truck gaudily painted and otherwise decorated with the largest degree of effectiveness, starts around the streets of the town with the cornetist sounding a bugle call and another helper with a megaphone announcing that Mr Record will speak Mr Record makes his talk in favor of many of the familiar devices which have been successful in the west government ownership of the railroads, higher taxes on the rich further regulation through the federal government of the hours and other conditions of labor in manufacturing industries and the destruction of the trusts In advocating these measures Mr Record makes an express repudiation of socialism

Mr Record has had practically a life long association with progressive movements with the old progressive party in a formal sense and since the death of the progressive party with third party movements

Among his achievements as listed in his own campaign literature Mr Record was the author of the New Jersey direct primary law the public utility franchise tax law and the workmens compensation act

He says he helped to make the New Jersey law giving the state the power to fix rates for gas electric lights and trolley companies At one time or another Mr Record has been a member of the Jersey City board of education and of the state board of railroad assessors, republican nominee for congress Roosevelt delegate to the republican national convention in 1912 and republican presidential elector for Charles E Hughes in 1916

As yet there is no sign that Mr Record's effort has endangered Frelinghuysen who is being endorsed by most of the regular party organizations The thing that will probably make Frelinghuysen secure is the fact that he is "dry"

Everybody knows that the democrats in New Jersey this year are going to give their senatorial nomination to Governor Edwards who is one of the most conspicuous "wets" in the country and who if he should be successful will be relied upon to lead the wet fight at Washington Under these circumstances Frelinghuysen is the white hope of the "drys"

URGES AMENDMENTS TO GOVERN SUMMONING OF U. S. CIVIL WITNESSES

WASHINGTON Aug 16—Amendments of existing laws with reference to the summoning of witnesses in civil cases is urged by Attorney General Daugherty in letters to Chairman Nelson of the senate judiciary committee and Chairman Volstead to the house judiciary committee asking for additional legislation to enable the government to institute suits for the recovery of money in certain war fraud cases

Explaining the impossibility of bringing witnesses in one judicial district to testify the defendants in one case would be scattered over many states unless they voluntarily appeared the attorney general asked that present conditions as to judicial process be relieved and the laws be amended with reference to the summoning of witnesses in civil cases so that they might be generally the same as with respect to summoning witnesses in criminal cases as under the anti trust acts Under the present law no witnesses may be summoned in civil cases to appear in court who live over 100 miles from the place where the court sits except in anti-trust cases

WATERMELON FEAST AT LAKE A JOLLY AFFAIR

Messrs. Lane Walker and Everett Riggins were hosts Tuesday night to the First Baptist B Y P U and the Epworth league of the First M. E. church south at a watermelon treat at Lake Wichita. The young people went out in two special street cars. On arrival the Methodists took to the water, while the Baptists seemed to prefer dry land games, but all enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The skating rink and merry-go-round were liberally patronized, and the hamburger stands came in for considerable attention. ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

CHOCOLATE ROOSTER MELTS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The Chocolate Rooster had disappeared completely.

Something dreadful happened.

The Chocolate Rooster had fallen into the lake on the Tinky-Winkle Star and was half melted before the Twins rescued him.

Suddenly Nancy saw a fire on shore.

"We'll take you there and dry you, poor dear," she said kindly, "and then we can go on. We simply must find Flap-Doodle, the wicked fairy who has caused all this trouble with the wand he stole from the Fairy Queen."

The fire was high and hot but nobody was around tending to it. Not a Tinky-Winkler was in sight.

"Maybe it's a magic fire," said Nick. "Maybe Flap-Doodle is sorry he changed you into chocolate and he's caused this fire to dry you out."

The Twins were so busy looking around to see if Flap-Doodle was near that they had not noticed what had happened.

Suddenly their eyes met a dreadful sight. The Chocolate Rooster had disappeared completely and in his place was nothing but a little pool of melted chocolate.

The fire, instead of drying him had melted him.

Just then the fire, too, disappeared.

"Oh," cried Nancy. "It's all magic! That awful Flap-Doodle is using the stolen wand. He's melted his best friend!"

"He wasn't my best friend," said a voice behind them. "He melted in everything I did."

Quick as a flash they turned just in time to catch a glimpse of Flap-Doodle himself, holding tight to the coveted wand.

But even as they looked, he flapped his ears and faded away from view.

The Woman of Poise

Once a rarity, is now to be observed and admired upon every hand. Indeed, no other woman can flourish long in the midst of this modern, complicated life. In the home, in business, in social life, the woman who is serene and confident wins, while the nervous, flustered individual wastes her talents and gets nowhere. Of course, poise is dependent mainly upon sound health and steady nerves. If you feel that you are being kept back in this way, why not turn to that great woman's remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which was manufactured from a thorough understanding of the nervous system of women. (adv.)

Alkali In Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless) and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub in the shampoo an abundance of rich cream lather which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly and then exhibits the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee.—Isaiah 42:6.

For it is beautiful only to do the thing we are meant for.—Florence Nightingale.

Texas-Oklahoma Fair, September 30 to October 4, Wichita Falls

CONSCIENCE IN POLITICS

In the recent democratic primary in Texas a great many voters voted for or against candidates because they were or were not members of some certain church, lodge or klan. Some of the results of that kind of voting have been far from satisfactory and if the practice is kept up there is no telling where we will get to, or rather it is certain that we will wind up with a church, lodge or klan autocracy.

If we are to continue as a free and democratic people we must stop voting for or against candidates because of their lodge or church affiliations. Whenever a candidate begins to parade his church or lodge connections it is an indication that he has not much else to recommend him and it is a good idea to let him alone.

It is often charged that Catholics are governed in their voting by the church connections of candidates. There are doubtless Catholics of that kind just as there are Protestants, but there is at least one Catholic publication that is preaching "true religion" on this subject. It is the Southern Messenger which is quoted by the Cisco Daily News as follows:

"Amid 'the tumult and the shouting' of candidates for political office, it would be well for all voters to remember that America is the country of all citizens, whatever be the religious faith of each one. Religion is neither a qualification nor a disqualification for public office. To hold a contrary doctrine is treason to America, to the fundamental principles of its constitution and laws. To refuse to vote for a candidate, otherwise deserving of confidence, on the ground of religion, is a crime against America of which the true American, or the true Catholic, is never guilty. To cast a vote for a Catholic, beyond his civic merit, merely because he is a Catholic, is a crime in the eyes of the country and in those of the church; and equally so is it a crime to cast a vote against a non-Catholic, merely because he is a non-Catholic. The test whereby a candidate for office is to be judged is his civic merit, his fitness, intellectual and moral, for the duties he pledges himself to perform—that and nothing else.

"Government—national, state and municipal—would be a vastly higher plane and much more efficiently conducted, if every voter should be actuated by these principles. Conscience and judgment should govern one in voting for public servants just as strongly as in any other duty."

HOARDING THRILLS

E. R. Waelde has never taken a railroad trip, though for 39 years he has been the railroad station agent at Milton, N. Y.

Now, retired on a pension at the age of 57, he starts a 7,000-mile jaunt in a Pullman. He will travel over the continent, visiting the alluring places to which he has been selling tickets since 1883.

To put yourself in his place for a moment, just recall your breathless excitement when you took your first railroad trip, long ago.

Many a man who figuratively "has seen and done everything" would trade several years of his life, to have followed Waelde's system and saved up a few of life's simple thrills.

Youth says, "Horray! 'm going there. First trip! Don't you wish you were me?"

Old age, conceited, cynical, boasts scornfully, "Aw, I've been there. Don't expect too much. You are apt to be disappointed."

Yet old age envies youth's excitement and anticipation. When those are gone, youth is gone—and, with it, most of life that is really worth while.

Joy is in the pursuit and conquest, not in the capture and victory.

Anticipation beats realization.

You young men taking hard knocks, trying your strength, you do not realize it but with all your hardships and disappointments you are living the best time of your lives. The trip is the thing that counts, not the destination.

The lure of the sea, also its charm is in the voyage rather than the far-off port.

Young women, too, some day will look back with misty eyes and long for the dreamland of girlhood.

Don't be impatient. Everything in life comes—oh, only too soon.

Our idea of fun would be two joy killers shooting at each other and both of them crack shots.

Senate has started an open air restaurant. Now, when eating spaghetti, the sky's the limit.

APPROVAL OF PRESIDENT HARDING'S ATTITUDE

President Harding has told Chairman McChord of the Interstate commerce commission to insist upon the full enforcement of the law regarding the inspection of railway locomotives. The president takes the position that it is better to get along with restricted service than to attempt to operate locomotives which are unsafe.

The public generally, we believe, will approve President Harding's attitude.

We are apparently in a long drawn out struggle between the shopmen and the railroads and we must make up our minds to accept restricted service from the railroads. It will hurt but some way we can get along until the strike is settled one way or the other.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GOSSIPER.

I was watching a gardner the other day and I noted he was uprooting many plants that looked quite green and beautiful. I asked him why he did it.

"Those are weeds," he replied. "If I left them they would suck the life and nourishment out of all these beautiful shrubs that you see I am trying to protect."

I was reminded then of a friend who had just told me about a person who seemed to delight in gossip—in repeating things about someone else of whom he knew nothing.

The gossip person is primarily a distributer of poison. He is the Devil's best valet.

Like a weed which serve no good purpose, the gossiper in addition to taking away from that which is right and good, creates an atmosphere for himself that all seek to shun.

If you cannot say good things about someone else—say nothing. And when you hear reports of ill against someone else, just believe nothing and go on your way.

I know of a friend who goes out of her way to say nice things about other people. I have never known her to repeat anything of a gossipy nature against anyone. Though she is very talented and needs all the boosting one could give her, still she delights in singing the praises of others, so that her own spirit grows in beauty all the time and she is beloved by all who know her.

The gossiper gets nothing in return for his gossip and his own soul shrinks at every stage of the game.

I wish that this world of ours might be more of a family world—in which we might all claim a divine relationship, all the time seeking to find beauty and then to distribute it. Seeking to find the good in things and people—and then to increase the stock throughout the world.

I know it is trite sounding, but it's big sounding—make others happy and you are sure to be happy.

JUST FOLKS —By— Edgar A. Guest

TIME'S ACCOUNT.

Yesterday was mine to own. I had it all and spent it
From dawn to dusk I squandered, saved, bought, gave away and lent it;
A minute here, a moment there, a few full hours to labor,
Some time for pleasure for myself, a little for my neighbor,
With some of it a profit gained, by some a new joy
tasted,
And some of it just slipped away like money that is wasted.

Yesterday was mine to spend, I owned its every minute—
A full day's purse was given to me and all the treasure in it,
I had the seconds and the hours to buy whate'er I chose to,
But who can tell when day is done where every moment goes to?
With some of it came laughter sweet, with some I purchased beauty,
And some I gave to friends of mine, and some I gave to duty.

Yesterday from dawn to dusk I had in my possession
Full four and twenty hours which came and went in one procession;
And eight of them I spent in sleep, untroubled as I rested,
And some of them I spent in toil, a little while I
jested,
An hour or two I spent in play, an hour I dreamed and pondered,
But when the day is reckoned up a lot of it was squandered.

PASSING OF THE CORN

By DR. R. H. BISHOP.

Corns are not as popular as they were, because people are learning wisdom in the selection of shoes—they have found by experience that it is better to fit the shoes to the feet than the feet to the shoes.

Still, despite waning popularity, the corn crop is larger than you would suspect. There are still people who ignore the fact that corns are warning signs that the feet are being ill-treated. Either tight shoes, which may in time deform the bones of the feet, or loose shoes that permit the feet to chafe, will result in corns.

Loose, ill-fitting shoes cause nearly as many corns as shoes that are too tight.

The pressure of badly-fitting shoes or the chafing of the toes against the leather when walking creates a hard layer of skin at the point of irritation. In time this becomes a cone-shaped mass, the apex of the cone pressing inward upon the sensitive tissue beneath.

Broad toed shoes, though not necessarily square-toed, usually will remove the pressure if the corn is on a toe.

To remove a corn first soften it by soaking the feet in very hot water for twenty minutes, then dry and apply the simple corn cure—five grains of salicylic acid dissolved in half an ounce of flexible collodion, painted on the corn only. This so softens the corn that it may be picked off. If it is necessary the treatment should be repeated daily.

Then see that there is no pressure on the spot that will bring it back.

A corn or callous should never be cut without first washing the hands thoroughly, boiling or thoroughly washing the razor with hot, soapy water and alcohol, and painting the skin over and all about the corn area with tincture of iodine.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

There are about 2,000 stitches in a pair of hand-sewn shoes.

The world's production of sugar is approximately 18,000,000 tons.

Lisbon and Oporto are the only cities in Portugal whose populations exceed 50,000.

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

EASE.

A typewriter in an airplane is run accurately by wireless. The operator is on the ground miles away. This is announced by the navy department.

It is an important invention, enabling a stenographer in San Francisco to type a message, instantly duplicated on a radio typewriter in New York.

Much work of the future, and maybe only a few years off, will be done by wireless-controlled machinery, miles from any human being.

RENTS.

Twelve thousand apartments are vacant in Chicago and rents have fallen an average of a fourth. So reports M. S. Walsh of the Tenants' league.

The building boom, by gradually eliminating the shortage of homes, is beginning to solve the rent problem.

The importance of Walsh's report is that national economic movements frequently start in Chicago. Lower rents are coming everywhere, only a question of time.

WEAK.

Hospitals will be the first to get coal in New York City, the fuel commission decides. This is real civilization—first attention devoted to the weak. The strong are abler to wait.

Wolves and most other animals kill their weak. It's part of the natural law of survival of the fittest. Civilized man seems to be repealing that law, but, so far, only when human life hangs by a thread.

SPENDING.

How big an income would it take to satisfy you?

Robert C. Mankowski, globe trotter and big game hunter, says he cannot make both ends meet on $20,000 a year. He petitions the New York courts to double his allowance.

At that, there are plenty who would consider $20,000 a year a mild form of poverty. Big prizes to the winners in the American fortune lottery. Few winners.

HELEN.

Helen Krawgoff, 14 years old, passes through on a 12,000-mile journey from Japan to Germany.

A long trip, but she travels alone—and safely.

Five hundred years ago, woman usually were not safe 12 miles, let alone 12,000. Civilization has brought them protection. Men are better than they used to be, but nothing to brag about yet.

YOUTH.

Sir R. Baden-Powell tells the international Boy Scouts conference in Paris that the key to lasting world peace lies in educating the rising generation for peace and against war.

That is true. It will take more than one generation to drive the war instinct out of the human brain. The drive can begin only in the cradle. Grownups believe in war, whether they admit it or not. And their brain cells, set like concrete, are not open to new impressions and impulses.

MARINE.

Manning American ships with American citizens is just as important, in building up a merchant marine, as having the ships under the American flag.

So you approvingly chuckle "Oheh!" at this news. The shipping board reports that in 12 months it placed 34,782 officers and men on American ships. And 92 out of 100 of them were American citizens.

RESCUE.

What is the most terrible situation you could get in? Few worse than being imprisoned in a mine, by a cave-in. The suspense is agonizing, not knowing whether help is coming or not.

Uncle Sam, working with mine owners, is introducing portage wireless receiving outfits which miners will carry with them. Through tons of fallen rock, radio will carry the glad news. "Cheer up! Rescue is at hand." Almost supernatural.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is—dirigible.

It's pronounced—dir-i-ji-b'l, with accent on the first syllable.

It means—steerable, something that can be directed, a steerable balloon or torpedo.

It comes from—Latin, "di'ri-'re" to direct.

It is used like this—"The popular definition of a 'dirigible' is that of a cigar-shaped, heavier-than-air craft, supported by gas and responsive to a rudder and in this sense the word has indeed gained official recognition, but primarily it means simply 'steerable,' so that it can be applied equally to a water-borne vessel, an automobile or practically any other mechanism to which a guiding hand can give direction."

Statistics show that the majority of divorces are sought by women between the ages of 20 and 25.

COME ON, IT'S YOUR TURN NOW

The RED HOUSE MYSTERY by A. A. MILNE

Antony tried to put himself in Cayley's place—Cayley, when Antony had first discovered him, hammering at the door and crying, "Let me in!" Whatever had happened inside the office, whoever had killed Robert, Cayley knew all about it, and knew that Mark was not inside, and had not escaped by the window. But it was necessary to Cayley's plans—to Mark's plans if they were acting in concert—that he should be thought so to have escaped. At some time, then, while he was hammering (the key in his pocket) at the locked door, he must suddenly have remembered—with what a shock!—that a mistake had been made. A window had not been left open!

And then Antony's sudden appearance! Here was a complication. And Antony suggesting that they should try the window! Why, the window was just what he wanted to avoid. No wonder he had seemed dazed at first.

Ah, and here at last was the explanation why they had gone the longest way round—and yet run. It was Cayley's only chance of getting a start on Antony, of getting to the windows first, of working them open somehow before Antony caught him up. Even if that were impossible he must get there first, just to make sure.

So he had run. But Antony had kept up with him. They had broken in the window together, and gone into the office. But Cayley was not done yet. There was the dressing-room window! But quietly, quietly Antony mustn't hear.

And Antony didn't hear. Indeed, he had played up to Cayley splendidly. Not only had he called attention to the open window, but he had carefully explained to Cayley why Mark had chosen this particular window in preference to the office window. And Cayley had agreed that probably that was the reason. How he must have chuckled to himself!

They were outside on the lawn again now, Bill and Antony and Bill was listening openmouthed to his friend's theory of yesterday's happenings. It only gave them another mystery to solve.

"What's that?" said Antony.

"Mark. Where's Mark? If he never went into the office at all, then where is he now?"

"I don't say that he never went in to the office. In fact, he must have gone. Elsie heard him." He stopped and repeated slowly. "She heard him—at least she says she did. But if he was there he came out again by the door."

"Well, but where does that lead you?"

"Where it led Mark. The passage."

"Do you mean that he's been hiding in there all the time?"

Antony was silent until Bill had repeated his question, and then with an effort he came out of his thoughts and answered him.

"We'd better make certain. Could you be a sleuth-hound, Bill—one of those that travel on their stomachs very noiselessly? I mean, could you get near enough to the pond to make sure that Cayley is still there, without letting him see you?"

"Rather!" He got up eagerly. "You wait."

Antony's head shot up suddenly. "Why, that was what Mark said," he cried.

"Mark?"

"Yes. What Elsie heard him say."

"Oh, that."

"Yes * * * I suppose she couldn't have made a mistake, Bill? She did hear him?"

"She couldn't have mistaken his voice, if that's what you mean."

"Oh!"

"Mark had an extraordinary characteristic voice."

"Oh!"

"Rather high-pitched, you know, and—well, one can't explain but—"

"Yes?"

"Well, rather like this, you know, or even more so if anything." He rattled these words off in Mark's rather monotonous, highpitched voice and then laughed and added in his natural voice, "I say, that was really rather good."

Antony nodded quickly. "That was like it?" he said.

"Exactly."

"Yes." He got up and squeezed Bill's arm. "Well, just go and see about Cayley and then we'll get moving. I shall be in the library."

"Right!"

Bill nodded and walked off in the direction of the pond. This was glorious fun, this was life. The immediate program could hardly be bettered.

To Antony, who was older and who realized into what deep waters they were getting, it did not seem fun. But it was amazingly interesting. It was like looking at an opal, and discovering with every movement of it some new color, some new gleam of light reflected, and yet never really seeing the opal as a whole. His brain could not get hold of it.

But there were moments when he almost had it * * * and then turned away from it. He had seen more of life than Bill, but he had never seen murder before, and this which was in his mind now, and to which he was afraid to listen, was not just the hot blooded killing which any man may come to if he lose control. It was something much more horrible. Too horrible to be true. Then let him look again for the truth. He looked again—but it was all out of focus.

CHAPTER XIV

Bill had come back, and had reported rather breathless, that Cayley was still at the pond. They stood in front of the row of sermons. Antony took down the Reverend Theodore Tasher's famous volume and felt for the spring. Bill pulled. The shelves swung open toward them.

"By Jove!" said Bill, "it is a narrow way."

There was an opening about a yard square in front of them which had something the look of a brick fireplace, a fireplace raised about two feet from the ground. But save for one row of bricks in front the floor of it was emptiness. Antony took a torch from his pocket and flashed it down into the blackness.

"Good Lord!" said Bill, turning round with a start, "Cayley!"

"Look!" he whispered to the eager Bill. "The steps begin down there. Six feet down."

He flashed his torch up again. There was a handhold of iron, a sort of large iron staple, in the bricks in front of them.

"You swing off from there," said Bill. "At least I suppose you do. I wonder how Ruth Norris liked doing it."

"Cayley helped her. I should think * * * It's funny."

"Shall I go first?" asked Bill, obviously longing to do so.

Antony shook his head with a smile. "I think I will, if you don't mind very much, Bill."

"Rights," he said. "Go on."

"Well, we'll just make sure we can get back again first. It really wouldn't be fair on the inspector if we got stuck down here for the rest of our lives. He's got enough to do trying to find Mark. But if he has to find you and me as well—"

Antony sat down on the ledge of bricks, swung his feet over and sat there for a moment, his legs dangling. He flashed his torch into the darkness again, so as to make sure where the steps began, then returned it to his pocket, seized the staple in front of him and swung himself down. His feet touched the steps beneath him and he let go.

"Is it all right?" said Bill anxiously.

"All right. I'll just go down to the bottom of the steps and back. Stay there."

The light shone down by his feet. His head began to disappear. For a little while Bill, leaning down the opening, could still see faint splashes of light, and could hear slow, uncertain footsteps; for a little longer he could fancy that he saw and heard them, then he was alone * * *

Well, not quite alone. There was a sudden voice in the hall outside.

"Good Lord!" said Bill, turning round with a start, "Cayley!"

"Look!" he whispered to the eager Bill. "The steps begin down there. Six feet down."

He flashed his torch up again. There was a handhold of iron, a sort of large iron staple, in the bricks in front of them.

"You swing off from there," said Bill. "At least I suppose you do. I wonder how Ruth Norris liked doing it."

"Cayley helped her. I should think * * * It's funny."

"Shall I go first?" asked Bill, obviously longing to do so.

Antony shook his head with a smile. "I think I will, if you don't mind very much, Bill."

"Rights," he said. "Go on."

"Well, we'll just make sure we can get back again first. It really wouldn't be fair on the inspector if we got stuck down here for the rest of our lives. He's got enough to do trying to find Mark. But if he has to find you and me as well—"

Antony sat down on the ledge of bricks, swung his feet over and sat there for a moment, his legs dangling. He flashed his torch into the darkness again, so as to make sure where the steps began, then returned it to his pocket, seized the staple in front of him and swung himself down. His feet touched the steps beneath him and he let go.

"Is it all right?" said Bill anxiously.

"All right. I'll just go down to the bottom of the steps and back. Stay there."

The light shone down by his feet. His head began to disappear. For a little while Bill, leaning down the opening, could still see faint splashes of light, and could hear slow, uncertain footsteps; for a little longer he could fancy that he saw and heard them, then he was alone * * *

Well, not quite alone. There was a sudden voice in the hall outside.

"Good Lord!" said Bill, turning round with a start, "Cayley!"

If he was not so quick in thought as Antony, he was quick enough in action. Thought was not demanded now. To close the secret door safely but noiselessly, to make sure that the books were in the right places, to move away to another row of shelves—the difficulty was not to decide what to do, but to do all this in five seconds rather than in six.

"Ah, there you are," said Cayley from the doorway.

"Hullo," said Bill in surprise looking up from the fourth volume of The Life and Works of Samuel Taylor Coleridge. "Have they finished?"

"Finished what?"

"The pond," said Bill wondering why he was reading Coleridge on such a fine afternoon. Desperately he tried to think of a good reason * * * verifying a quotation—an argument with Antony—that would do. But what quotation?

"Oh, no. They're still at it. Where's Gillingham?"

"'The Ancient Mariner'—water, water everywhere or was that something else? And where was Gillingham? Water, water everywhere—"

"Tony? Oh, he's about somewhere. They aren't finding anything at the pond, are they?"

"No. It's the like doing it. Something off their minds when they can say they've done it."

Bill dropped his book looked up and said "Yes," and went back to it again. He was just getting to the place.

"What's the book?" said Cayley, coming up to him. Out of the corner of his eye he glanced at the shelf of sermons as he came. Bill saw that glance and wondered. Was there anything there to give away the secret?

"I was just looking up a quotation," he drawled. "Tony and I had a bet about it. You know that thing—about—er—water, water everywhere, and—er—not a drop to drink." (But what on earth he wondered to himself were they betting about?)

"'Nor any drop to drink' to be accurate."

Bill looked at him in surprise. Then a happy smile came on his face.

"Quite sure," he said.

"Of course."

"Then you've saved me a lot of trouble. That's what the bet was about." He closed the book with a slam, put it back in its shelf and began to feel for his pipe and tobacco. "I was a fool to bet with Tony," he added. "He always knows that sort of thing."

So far so good. But here was Cayley still in the library, and there was Antony all unsuspecting, in the passage. When Antony came back he would not be surprised to find the door closed, because the whole object of his going had been to see if he could open it easily from the inside. At any moment then the bookshelf might swing back and show Antony's head in the gap. A nice surprise for Cayley.

REPORT LOCATIONS WILL BE MADE IN MONTAGUE FOR GAS

NOCONA, TEXAS, Aug. 16.—Reports circulated during the past few days that locations would immediately be made for several new wells has created considerable interest in this section.

The Producers well on the Maddox farm after being shut down for some time, resumed drilling last Friday with an increased gas flow. It is conservatively estimated the well can produce ten million cubic feet of gas. Visiting oil people from the Oklahoma oil fields say for that depth which is only 500 feet, it is a strong gasser.

The Texas well, one-half mile southeast of the Producers, when opened up can be heard for two miles showing the strength of the flow of gas.

Southeast of the Texas the Williams well has the best prospects of an oil well because it was found by divers of oil estimated [illegible] barrels, but the test was finished and pod because of sand [illegible].

To all the prospects from the conservative has a more [illegible] county now has [illegible] prospects to be one of the [illegible] oil fields in Texas.

Southwest of [illegible] test is drilling daily and [illegible] feet.

It is reported that the [illegible] company has made [illegible] shot to drill [illegible] gas wells.

The Bales people were the first to date their coinage.

Another Ninth Inning Rally Gives Spudders Verdict Over Bruins

SAN ANTONIO, Aug 16—Belting Larry Cheney for 10 hits, including a double triple and home run, in the ninth inning of yesterday's game with the Bears, the Spudders broke a 2 to 2 deadlock and won by the count of 10 to 2. The sensational rally came like a bolt out of a clear sky as up to the last half of the final session, Cheney was giving "Rip" Wheeler a merry rub for the honors of the day. Only five hits had been garnered off the Bruin flinger up to the ninth

Every Spudder except Fred Beck hit safely at least once in the last period while Tanner whammed out a triple and double and Summa a brace of singles. Tanner started the uproar with a slashing triple to right and scored soon after on Adams' one base clout to left A clean hit to right by Summa and Miller's infield blow quickly filled the bases, but the visitors were unable to budge when Beck fanned. White then crashed his double to left which scored Adams and Summa, and Bischoff smacked a safety to center which scored two more Wheeler kept the agate rolling with a single to right which put Bischoff in third and Bescher followed with a round trip blow to deep left center which netted three more counters Tanner came through with his second hit of the inning soon after, but Adams made it two away when he filed out to Meyers. Summa doled his second knock of the chapter at this point, but Miller ended the rally by forcing him at second

It was one of the greatest exhibitions of awatting ever witnessed on the local park Of the thirteen men to toe the plate, 10 hit safely and every blow was of the clean cut type.

The Spudders had previously scored twice in the second frame they waited until two men were down before starting. Beck then doubled to left and scored when White thumped another two-ply wallop to the right pasture. A wild pitch put Al on third and he counted when Dempsey dropped Gross' throw on Bischoff's grounder.

The Bears evened it up in the next period on a hit batsman, infield hit by Fuller and clean singles by Gross and Boone. Thereafter Wheeler was extremely stingy in the pinches, and though several Bruins got on, they could not get around to the counting station. The box score:

SARAZEN MUST ELIMINATE HUTCHISON FOR THE TITLE

By Associated Press

OAKLAND COUNTRY CLUB Pittsburgh Aug 16 – The struggle between Gene Sarazen and Jock Hutchison today the fourth round of the national professional golf tournament, attracted supreme interest and the 18 hole matches of the six less famous survivors were left to the attention of minor galleries

If the Pittsburgh youth can top pole the Chicago veteran and thus get in the semi final round on Thursday he will be one stride closer to the historic feat of winning two national titles in one season.

NEW YORK CROWNS DUNDEE CHAMPION OF FEATHERWEIGHTS

NEW YORK, Aug 16—Johnny Dundee did two things last night in his bout with Danny Frush of Cleveland that he seldom does

He landed a knockout and he annexed a title, the former much more realistic than the crown bestowed upon him by the New York state boxing commission—"featherweight champion of the world in New York state."

Johnny Kilbane, basking behind a shield of greenbacks in Cleveland, wears the genuine crown that outside of New York state is acknowledged to be the original

Despite his twelve years in the ring, meeting all comers, the best and worst in three divisions, featherweights, junior lightweights and lightweights, and being outpointed very few times and knocked out scarcely at all, Dundee has been unfortunate. He has not received a sure enough gold plated title nor has he sent many to dreamland

He put Frush to bed in a cool methodical manner Both began carefully, but after the first round Danny was indiscreet He relied on a stiff left arm to keep Johnny at his distance and also to win Dundee pawed around for a few rounds, hitting a stinger now and then, and doing more damage than was apparent

Rushing from his corner in the ninth, Dundee met Frush as the latter emerged from his seat, landed both hands, sent the Clevelander to the ropes with a volley, stood back and pumped a terrific left to the head and then crashed a burning right in the pit of the stomach Frush fell groggy, but not unconscious He broke the fall with his left hand and lay there so exhausted he could not arise

What's the Alibi Now?

Wonder if the Giants and Bears tossed the balls?

Hard on the Nerves.

If the Spudders don't quit those ninth inning rallies somebody is going to drop off with heart failure one of these days

Statement Denied by Beck.

Fred Beck is said to be the player who told Conley after the "doctored" game he didn't want him to think he was mixed up in the thing Beck claims he made no such statement He told Conley that he was sorry there was a cloud hovering over the game but that he was positive the Wichitans had nothing to do with "doctoring" the balls. He told the writer Sunday that whatever was on the balls came from the bats Every Spudder made the same statement

Expected As Much.

Dallas and Fort Worth scribes (some of them) are taking the attitude that the Spudders are guilty until proven innocent. They are taking the word of the Dallas contingent alone That is only natural, however, as the writers in both cities never could see any good in the Spudders.

Will Come Out Friday.

President Roberts has received the testimony of several witnesses, but has declined to divulge the nature of it It will all come out at the "trial" Friday at which "sentence" will be pronounced by three directors of the league—Paul Dean Grave of Fort Worth Judge Croker of Houston and Joe Mathes of Beaumont

"Good" Testimony.

One of the "witnesses" in the case called up by the league proxy was a Dallas sport scribe who witnessed the game from the press coop He knows absolutely nothing about the entire affair except what has been told him by his own players He knows only what the fans in the stand know. Newspaper men will be barred at the "trial" What's the big idea?

Had Radio Apparatus, Maybe.

Two Dallas sport writers are said to have heard the remark attributed to Beck They must have wonderful auditory nerves They were in the press coop when the two clubs left the field

Let's Wait.

The best thing everyone can do, however is to refrain from passing judgment until the case has been decided Friday

A Come-Back.

When Roy Mitchell lost his first start in the last Dallas series here a photograph was published in the column to the effect that there was only one unhappy heart in Wichita Falls that night That belonged to Miss Ida B Mitchell, Roy's sister.

The following was received today "Terrible

"Not one happy heart in all of the 40 0's folks in Wichita Falls Sunday The 40 0's wish Miss Ida B Mitchell was out of town She is a sister of Roy Mitchell Nuff said"

Rather Inconsistent.

A Dallas scribe, commenting on Sunday's game here writes "Wichita Falls had won twenty five consecutive victories aided by the trick diamond there and the umpirine. The same scribe stated in the press coop while the game was in progress he was glad that no complaint could be made about the umpirine. As for the trick diamond any breaks that occurred owing to the ground went to the Giants The fans who saw the games will testify to that The writer also claims that Mitchell would have won his first game were it not for the fact that he were stiff with rheumatism There's something radically wrong some place when a manager will order a pitcher to work when he is "stiff with rheumatism"

Good Games in Store.

Wichita Falls won't be without its baseball this weekend The twilight championship is to be determined Sunday when the University club and American Legion clashes while the city league crown will be decided Saturday in the Gulf-Texas mixup. The four clubs are on edge and have been practicing faithfully for the contests The four nines represent the best in the city and exceptionally large attendances are looked for Those who journey to Athletic park won't be disappointed.

Will Bleed Internally.

If there's one thing J. A Gardner of the Gulf Production company would rather do than see Wichita Falls win a pennant it is to see his aggregation cop the city title There never was a more loyal fan in any city that J A If any fan ever wants to know the whereabouts of a ball player who has been in the organized ranks for the past 10 years he need only get in touch with J A He's a walking base ball encyclopedia His heart and soul is wrapped up in his own organization and it will be a bitter pill for him to swallow if it is knocked under

Gulf and Texas Nines To Play For City Title At Athletic Park Saturday

While the Spudders are away taking care of the clubs in the southern part of the state Wichita Falls fans will have an opportunity of seeing a fast game at Athletic park Saturday when the Gulf and Texas companies meet for the play-off for the City league championship The Gulf has a fast well balanced team, and would give a hard fight to any semi pro club in the state.

Practically every fan knows of "Billy" Maloney, oldtime leadoff man of the famous Chicago Cubs Billy was in the majors for many years and is still able to hit and run bases with some of his oldtime pep He is taking care of center field for the Gulf boys

Oberwetter in left field has made a good record this year in the City league He is a hard hitter and has played errorless ball throughout the season

Matthews at second base is a fast and able man having an accurate arm and a good batting eye He is a product of the University of Arkansas.

Lourey Well Known.

Billy Lourey needs no introduction to the fans as he caught for the Panthers in the Texas league a couple of seasons. Bill knows baseball, having coached the University of North Carolina a couple of years in addition to playing in the Texas Pacific Coast, Western and Southern leagues. He has a good arm, and bats in cleanup position on the Gulf team

Sinclair in right field is a product of the Wichita high school, and is well known to all the fans. He is a dangerous hitter, a fast runner and is expected to give the opposition much trouble.

Gus Friedlander will take care of first, and is said to be a second "Sisler" around the initial sack.

Rankin holds down the hot corner and will be remembered by his good work with the fast Denver team As a third basemen he has no equal in the City league.

Haynie, another product of the University of Arkansas, plays short, can get them from either side, and has an accurate arm, besides being a good hitter.

"Bitsy" Connally will do the twirling for the Gulf Out of thirty-nine games pitched this season Snipe has lost only eight He has been out with the Spudders on a number of occasions this years pitching to the batters, and bids fair to be on some first class professional club before long

As utility men the Gulf has Barron and Anderson as pitchers, either one a dangerous man. Rose, a first class catcher, and Mabes, outfielder

The boys have been out practicing every day for the last few weeks working out, and promise to be in excellent shape for the contest

TEXAS COMPANY EMPLOYE MAKES GOOD FARMING

HAS A RECORD OF $1,000 PROFIT FROM TWO ACRES LAND

CONDITIONS ARE NOT SO FAVORABLE THIS YEAR

Acts in Capacity of Pumper at Water Station; Farming is a Side Line

ELECTRA, Aug 16—Five hundred dollars an acre is an income so fabulous that it sounds almost unbelievable Yet that is the record of J C Anderson who lives on Beaver creek in this county It is true that Mr Anderson farmed only two acres, and it is likewise true that he did not put in all his time on his truck farming

This irrigation exponent is an employe of the Texas company, acting in the capacity of pumper at its water station near where Beaver creek empties into the Wichita river. Farming is a hobby with him

The returns from truck growing have not been so favorable this year, as two years ago when he made $1,000 profit on his two acres He is convinced, however, that irrigation will pay handsomely in Wichita county

Mr. Anderson had to do his work without a team, which handicapped him He turned his attention to the growing of tomatoes and cantaloupes, and when seen in Electra recently he had a small truck load of luscious red tomatoes The fruit was of good size and remarkably even in texture. His cantaloupes were uniform in size, well colored and fine flavored

However, as tomatoes are pollenized by the wind Mr. Anderson has found it difficult to grow them. "They do well on the low places," he says, "and will produce where they get the dew."

"What about a market?" Mr Anderson was asked

"I have found Electra an A-1 market for all I have been able to grow," he replied He had received 10 cents a pound for his tomatoes that day, which was an appreciable premium over the price paid for the product shipped in

The Beaver creek man found it necessary to water his crop about three times During a part of the time he had to employ one man to help him. It is his opinion that about five acres of land in truck and small fruits is enough to keep a man busy, and if properly handled will yield an ample return for a comfortable living.

Naturally Mr. Anderson is enthusiastic over the irrigation project now in course of construction along the Wichita river, which will bring perhaps a quarter of a million acres under irrigation Poland China Sale.

His second dam was Fashion Girl, the highest priced animal in her class ever sold.

Honor Student.

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Aug 16—Among the honor students at the University of Texas, according to announcement received from Dr H Y Benedict, dean of that institution, is Miss Llerena Friend of this city. Her name was included in the ten per cent making the highest record The young lady is a daughter of Mr and Mrs E M Friend of Electra, and was an honor graduate of the local high school a year ago.

COTTON MARKETS

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Aug 16.—Continued crop complaints combined with the more favorable view of the coal situation and reports of an improving goods demand in Manchester led to further covering or scattered buying in the cotton market here early today. Liverpool cables were lower than due but the opening here was 4 to 11 points higher and active months sold 11 to 22 points above yesterday's closing after the call, with December at 20.78, showing a recovery of 66 points from the low price of yesterday There was scattered realizing and a little southern selling on the advance but New Orleans was a buyer and spot people were credited with buying near months.

There was enough realizing to send December off to 20.67 during the early afternoon or within 7 points of yesterday's close but continued crop complaints gave the market a steady undertone and active months were 20 to 22 points net higher around 2 o'clock

The early buying movement continued with December contracts selling up to 20.98 with active months generally showing net advances of about 30 to 39 points and a recovery of some 80 to 87 points from the low prices of yesterday. The weekly report of the weather bureau made a bullish showing but seemed to have been well discounted and prices eased off a few points after its publication under realizing The census report showing domestic mill consumption of 458,448 against 410,142 for July last year attracted no special comment

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug 16—The better turn taken by the coal labor troubles together with the lack of any rain of consequence in the western division of the belt, and too much rain in the central and eastern divisions, put prices strongly higher in the cotton market today In the first hour of trading there was a rise of 27 to 31 points, carrying October up to 20.42

Price changes became narrower Liquidation from the long side worked against values in some extent and at 12.30 o'clock the list stood at net gains of 14 to 17 points with October at 20.25

The July consumption figures from the census bureau of 458,448 bales were not considered favorable but they were more than offset by the bullish construction placed on the weekly reports on the crop by the government, most traders and brokers claiming that they indicated more severe crop deterioration than expected The advances was widened to 40 to 45 points, October rising to 20.56, but heavy realizing came from the long side at this level and continued for some time Under it prices fell until they were unchanged to 2 points up compared with yesterday's close October fell to 20.12 At 11 o'clock the market was much steadier with October back up to 20.32

Cotton closed steady at net advances of 24 to 28 points

CHICAGO, Aug 16—Wheat made a moderate upturn in price today during the early dealings, no important new selling pressure being apparent Besides Liverpool quotations failed to reflect yesterday's weakness in America and it was announced that the world's stocks of wheat showed a decrease of 17,682,000 bushels for July Strength in the corn market also tended to give firmness to wheat The opening, which ranged from ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, with September $1.00 to $1.00½ and December $1.01⅜ to $1.02, was followed by a rise all around to well above yesterday's finish

Strength in the stock market together with the reopening of coal mines in various sections tended somewhat to restore confidence of buyers and so too did gossip that export business was being done The close was steady ½ to ⅞c net higher with September $1.00½ to $1.01 and December $1.02½ to $1.02¾

High temperatures and dry weather led to a fresh advance for corn and oats After opening ½ to ⅝c higher September 59 to 59½c, the corn market scored material further gains.

Reports of rains in Illinois checked the advance but the market closed firm ½@¾c net higher, with September 59⅞@⅞c to 59½c

Oats started ⅛c off to ⅛c@¼c higher. September 30⅞ to 30¾ and later hardened on all deliveries

Provisions were firm in line with hog values.

"WATCH 'EM GROW"

A Question With Two Sides

It is self evident that a public service company is composed of two important elements that must work together, the public and the service.

The Lone Star Gas Company has a particular service to sell in maintaining a supply of natural gas for your use every minute. This service demands a large outlay of capital, much enterprise and the application of foresight.

Whenever one person in a community desires gas thousands of others want it at the same time.

Taxed to Its Utmost

For a few days every winter, every consumer calls for all he can get. At this time the Lone Star Company's facilities must furnish four or five times the ordinary supply Often this great demand comes on very short notice.

This peak load calls for an enormous plant for use only a few days each winter. It is sometimes taxed to its utmost for only a few hours.

The consumers should know this, because upon their careful use of gas at such time depends the comfort of thousands. When every consumer wants an abnormal supply, some are likely to run short.

Prepare for It Now

Therefore, we call upon our partners in this enterprise—the public—to prepare now for this winter's load by the installation of gas saving appliances, by correcting wasteful methods and by rightful use—not necessarily deprivation—of the world's best fuel,

We try at all times to give the best service possible The public—you—alone can utilize that service to the greatest advantage to everybody.

HEAVY DOWNPOUR OF RAIN REPORTED NEAR CALL FIELD

While Wichita Falls watched the moisture filled clouds roll by Tuesday afternoon and hoping that they would shed their load, a heavy rain fell between the city and Call Field, according to people who were driving on the Lake road. This is the only spot in the entire district touched by railroads where rain was reported.

During the day the temperature crawled up to the 96 degree mark and during the night receded to the 77 degree point.

The night was a pleasant one and cool breeze from the southeast kept blowing throughout the night.

Clear skies were reported from practically all points Wednesday morning.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR WILL CONFER DEGREES UPON LARGE CLASS THURSDAY

Wichita Falls Commandery No 59, Knights Templar, will hold a regular conclave Thursday evening at 4 o'clock, at which time the orders will be conferred upon a large class of candidates. At 6:00 p. m. a banquet will be served in the banquet hall. Special music will feature the initiatory work and a large attendance is expected.

On account of the hot weather during the past few weeks, work in the commandery has been extremely light and it is expected that a great many petitioners will report to receive the work during the fall months.

The drill team will commence active training, under Captain Leslie Stringer, some time during the early part of September, as they expect to attend the Grand Commandery session to be held in Dallas next April.

Mother Fails to Become Annoyed About Daughter

Two young women and a 17 year old boy stood before the bar in corporation court Wednesday evening. One of the women raised her right hand and was sworn.

"What is this girl's relation to you?" she was asked.

"She's my daughter," was the reply.

The two could easily have passed as sisters. The daughter, who with the youth, faced a vagrancy charge, was an attractive, womanly individual, looking far more mature than the 14 years her mother said she had seen. The mother appeared rather disdainful of the proceedings and apparently felt no great concern over her daughter's predicament. When the ages of the defendants were ascertained, they were ordered transferred to juvenile court.

There was another vagrancy defendant Wednesday morning, a young woman, mother of three children and wife of an invalid husband. Her case was passed for the present.

FAIR DIRECTORS MEETING NOT HELD TUESDAY NIGHT; MANY ARE OUT OF TOWN

The meeting of the Texas-Oklahoma fair association directors which was scheduled for Tuesday night was postponed owing to inability to get a quorum.

Some of those present suggested that the next meeting be called at the Antlers hotel, Colorado Springs, so that a quorum might be obtained.

In the meantime plans and preparations for the fair are going ahead steadily.

NEED OF DISPOSAL PLANT EMPHASIZED BY CONDITIONS NOW

The need of a sewage disposal plant for Wichita Falls is being unpleasantly emphasized just now.

Wichita river, into which the sewage is discharged, has practically ceased to flow and as a result things are getting pretty smelly around the outlet.

A sewage disposal plant has long been considered a necessity here, but other things have come ahead of it on the municipal program.

Creosote Hounds Here From Dallas Officers Believe

Two representatives of a Dallas detective agency were in Wichita Falls Wednesday in connection with the "creosote" incident, so-called, in last Friday's baseball game.

The creosote-hounds were recognized by a local officer, who found out what they were here for.

Just what they expect to find out, and how they expect to find it out, was not ascertained.
